

Publication May 2008—Limited Edition, special price: order now

WICKED PRACTISE & SORCERYE

The Witches of Belvoir – 1619
by Michael Honeybone

In 1613 the infant heir to an earldom died. Six years later two sisters were hanged -- for his murder by witchcraft. Margaret and Philippa Flower, their mother and their cat Rutterkin were said to have caused the maladies of the Earl of Rutland's sons Henry & Francis Manners at Belvoir Castle.

This story has reverberated across four centuries. It reflects village and castle life, the law against witchcraft, religious conviction, evolving theology and the changing role of medicine.

Set in the context of Jacobean rural society, this book records and appraises an extraordinary conflict of faith and fear. Local jealousies and inexplicable sickness converged around the death of a little boy and his distraught and powerful father's pain.

*Michael Honeybone read History at Oxford, and lectures widely. He wrote *The Books of Grantham, of Bottesford and of the Vale of Belvoir.

Case bound, some 200 pages and 60 illustrations including original engravings, contemporary paintings and modern photographs, plus a reprint of the 1619 Belvoir Pamphlet of individually numbered copies listing subscribers' names ordered pre-publication £10; available in Bottesford Church 5 May 2008 or mailed against carriage of £2.50 (£12.99 hardback and £9.99 paperback editions in shops after publication)

LIMITED EDITION

Please complete and return the form below to:

Dr Michael Honeybone, 99 Lincoln Street, Norwich NR2 3JZ

.....

Please reserve mecopies of Wicked Practise & Sorcerye at £10 each, to be paid on collection (£12.50 pre-paid, to be mailed)

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....

..... postcode

e-mail

Signed.....date.....

NAME(S) for entry in the book.....

All details correct at time of printing – May collection details to be confirmed in the local press